A JACKIE HAS A DOUBLE CELEBRATION

He Was From Missouri and was Liberal With His Money

William Pitta, a hospital apprentice at the navy yard hospital, was discharged on Tuesday, having completed his enlistment. It was William's birthday also, and he certainly celebrated the dual event. He had a big roll of the long green and started in right away to dispose of it.

After getting pretty fairly picked he drifted into the depot bound for Missouri. However he wanted to make a call at Dover before starting west and purchased a ticket for the Coheco city. While waiting for the train he amused himself by throwing away his money right and left which soon attracted a few sharks and also Officer Frank West. The jackie was full of good nature and he agreed to take a sleep at the cooler.

When searched he had $124 but his discharge papers and ticket for Dover were missing. This morning the papers and ticket were found on the electric car tracks near the corner of Deer and Vaughan streets, where they had been soaking in the rain all night. Today William made his second start for Missouri via Dover.

THREE INJURED MEN ARE STILL ALIVE

Little Hope Entertained for Two of the Victims at Minersville

Pottsville, Pa., May 9.—The three men injured in yesterday's fight between state police and idle anthracite mine workers at Minersville, are still alive, but there is little hope for two of them.

No trouble was experienced when repairsmen and pumpmen went to work today at the collieries about Minersville. The state police maintained a thorough patrol. The moonlains were dotted with pickets who stopped many workmen on their way to the collieries. The workmen were obliged to tell what kind of work they were doing and were permitted to continue, but warned not to go to work after today.

Several hundred company hands, other than engineers, pumpmen, bosses and firemen, were sent home by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company officials at Shamokin, today, with instructions to remain away from the mines until the coal suspension ends. They had been doing repair work.

Lehigh Valley coal and iron police dispersed miners' pickets near two collieries in the neighborhood of Mount Carmel and Centralia. They arrested a powerful foreigner for throwing stones at company hands. He resisted and after a sharp fight in which he was badly out and bruised, he was placed in jail here.

An attempt was made at Locust Gap to wreck a Reading railway freight train during the night. The engine, seven cars and a caboose ran over an iron bolt fastened by unidentified persons on the main track, between Locust Summit and Buck mountain. The train was not derailed. Owing to unsettled labor conditions in the coal region special police and track walkers have been distributed along the Reading railway.

STATE COUNCIL OF DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY

Annual Session Held With Addie F. Burkitt Council of This City.

The eighteenth annual session of the State Council of the New Hampshire Daughters of Liberty was held in this city on Thursday with Addie F. Burkitt Council. The session opened at 11 o'clock with State Councillor Flora L. Hall of Milford presiding, and delegates present from twenty-nine of the thirty councils. The report of the secretary showed the order to be in a flourishing order in the state.

At the afternoon session the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

State Councillor, Orla Choate of Bradford.

Associate Councillor, Merle Higgins of Portsmouth.

Vice Councillor, Annie Rogers of Nashua.

Associate Vice Councillor, Ada Gibson of Nashua.

Guide, Libbey Cummings of Manchester.

Recording Secretary, Eva Bills of Nashua.

Assistant Recording Secretary, Bertha Sanborn of Lakeport.

Treasurer, Emma Whelpley of Hillsborough.

Assistant Treasurer, Mary Webster of Londonderry.

Inner Guard, Mattie Pettingill of Concord.

Outer Guard, Lena Sanborn of Plymouth.

Representative to National Council, Flora Hall of Milford.

Alternate, Georgie Whitten of Manchester.

Voted to hold next session at Concord the second Thursday in May, 1913.

In the evening the visiting delegates were entertained with a musical and literary program at N. E. O. P. hall by the members of Addie F. Burkitt Council.

The hall was handsomely decorated with flags and bunting by George P. Knight, thirty large American flags being used in the decoration.

Good for Camp as well as Kitchen

Stewart Edward White, the noted novelist, in his recent book, "The Mountaintop," gives some advice on page 181 which will interest every housewife. He writes:

"Even if you do not intend to wash dishes, bring along some Gold Dust. It is much simpler in getting at odd corners of obstinate kettles than any soap. All you have to do is to boil some of it in that kettle and the mess is tamed at once."

Most housewives know already the value of Gold Dust for washing dishes and cleansing pots and pans, and, in fact, for all household cleaning.

Successfully performed and he was brought home in the late afternoon very comfortable. Miss Lucy B. Record, professional nurse, accompanied him.

Miss Edith Clough has been unable to go to the Portsmouth High school for a few days on account of an eye trouble which prevents study.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society met on Tuesday with Mrs. William A. Odell. At the same time choice of officers was made for the Home Missionary society, the annual election. The same officers were re-elected.

Want Investigation

A proposition for the investigation of the navy yard management by a sub committee of the House Committee on Naval Affairs is under consideration in the committee. Former Chairman Foss and Representative Buchanan, of Illinois, think that in view of the statements in former Naval Constructor Evans' hearings the committee should investigate the yards. It is doubtful whether the committee will be able to take this matter up at this session as it has so many other questions to consider before the adjournment, which is apt to come early in June. Representatives Foss and Buchanan insist that if the committee does not take such action at this session it should at the next.—Army and Navy Journal.

Their next meeting.

Edward L. Patterson was granted permission to open Bartlett street to connect premises with sewer.

Want Paper Collected.

A petition signed by William D. Grace and 170 others was received asking that the city team collect paper, ashes and rubbish. A committee consisting of Councilmen Holmes, Parsons and Herrick was appointed to confer with the Board of Public Works and see what arrangements could be made to carry out the request of the petitioners.

Money for Contagious Use.

A petition was received from the Board of Health asking for an additional appropriation of $3000 to take care of the present contagious cases and any more that might arise. A resolution was introduced that no payment of bills of this nature be made from funds not appropriated for any other purpose in 1912.

The sale of the standing grass in the Almshouse field to Charles A. Badger for $600 by the committee on city lands and buildings was ratified.

On motion of Councilman Herrick it was voted to settle the claim of Charles G. Fernald of $50, for damage caused by a defective sewer.

On Motion of Councilman Leary

the report of the special committee in relative to the Board of Public Works was taken from the table to be considered.

Regretted His Action.

Councilman Holmes said he regretted he signed the report. The water situation was an important question and should not be passed over lightly. I should like to have the Board of Public Works make a statement as to what they want so that I and my colleagues can better understand the situation. There is I believe a chance for great improvement in both conserving and pumping the water. On our visit to two Sherburne springs we saw pipe lying around that was not fit for the purpose. I believe more water could be obtained by more sunken wells. I have been in favor of installing meters as our water is too good to be wasted. I think we should do something to help the water department and put it on a basis where it should be. The best thing we can do is to cut politics out, so far as it concerns the water department.

Mr. Hasty, of the Board of Public Works, then addressed the council. He said that a rather serious condition confronted the Board of Public Works as the water plant had been operated for 20 years and was in a serious condition. There should be more storage capacity for a reserve supply so that it could be pumped in twelve hours time what now requires twenty-four hours, which would make a large saving. He recommended the installing of meters, charging the city for hydrant service. If we can carry out these improvements on the lines suggested, we can put the water department on a business basis.

Money has got to be spent to do it. It may not be spent this year, but sooner or later it has got to be done.

Mr. Barrett of the Board of Public Works said that it would be a saving to pump water direct from Haver springs to the standpipe instead of relaying it.

Councilman Herrick said he was not in favor of giving Board of Public Works $33,000 unless it was actually needed. He, however, favored a reasonable amount to bring the plant up where it belonged. After some further discussion it was voted that the Finance committee confer with the members of the Board of Public Works and report at the next meeting.

That Islington Street Job.

Councilman Leary, ever alert to the interests of his ward, asked the members of the Board of Public Works when the contractors intended to start work on the Islington street job. Mr. Barrett stated that the contractor was waiting for the Boston & Maine railroad to begin their work first, and the road had stated that they would commence in a few days. It was expected that work would have been commenced three weeks ago.

Street Musicians Must Pay.

Councilman McMahon offered an ordinance requiring all street musicians, such as hurdy gurdys, street singers and others to pay a license fee of $10, before they could ply their vocation. Failure to obtain a license should be punished by a fine not exceeding $10. The new ordinance was passed under the suspension of the rules and becomes effective June 1st.

City Clerk Corey was authorized to purchase in behalf of the city all property sold for non-payment of taxes.

Captain Weatherby of the Salvation Army was granted permission to erect a fence with gate in the rear of the building occupied by the Salvation Army.

Adjournment was made until May 23 at 8 o'clock and Councilman Holmes, no doubt thinking of the tiresome wait in the early part of the evening suggested "sharp."

TO LICENSE ALL WIRELESS.

Senate Passes Measure Covering the United States.

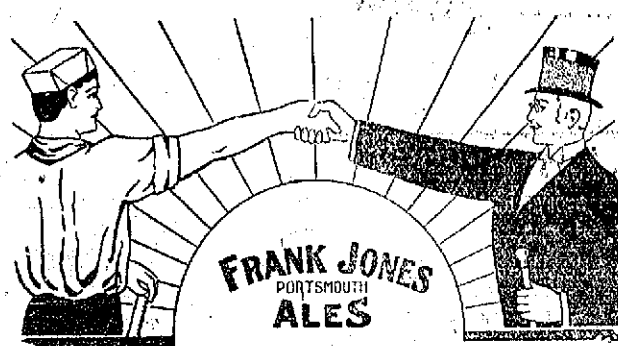

Washington, May 9.—A bill was passed by the Senate, Tuesday, to regulate radio communications. The measure is intended to carry into effect the provision of the international wireless treaty signed at Berlin by the international conference on wireless communication, which was recently ratified by the Senate. The bill makes it necessary for any person, company or corporation within the jurisdiction of the United States who desires to use or operate any apparatus for radio communication in interstate commerce, or in any vessel of the United States engaged in such commerce, to take out a license, revocable for cause. The license is to be issued by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor in his discretion.

The bill does not interfere with radio communication from one place in a State to another places in the same State. Government messengers by wireless are exempt from the bill. A penalty is provided for a violation of the requirements of a license and any person, company or corporation that makes use of apparatus for radio communication in violation of the bill, or who shall aid or abet others to violate it, is adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor, subject to a fine of $500 and to have the apparatus confiscated by the Government.

The form of license is to be prescribed by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and it can be issued only to citizens of the United States. All wireless apparatus must be operated by an operator licensed by the Government, and every operator must be a citizen of the United States. Section 4 of the bill makes commercial and private wireless stations subject to the international regulations agreed upon at the Berlin international conference.

NEW AEROPLANE AMAZES KING GEORGE

Extraordinary Feats Performed By Naval Machine at Review at Weymouth.

A special from London to the New York Times says: When Englishmen read in their morning papers today of a wonderful new machine, both aeroplane and hydroplane, which had been invented by one of their countrymen, acquired by the navy, and was to be shown today at the naval review by King George in Weymouth Bay, the news seemed too good to be true.

The reports, however, were not exaggerated, and it is now declared that Great Britain has the most remarkable and satisfactory machine of its kind in the world, that other powers have been left behind in the race for aerial supremacy, and that the British waterplane has already performed feats completely altering the conditions possible in naval warfare.

The waterplane is described as having "the powers of an albatross, able to fly over the water, float upon it, and rise again." It was piloted today by Commander Samson, R. N.

The King arrived in Weymouth Bay in the royal yacht. Three hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of warships were drawn up for his inspection. A heavy sea and thick fog, however, made warship maneuvers impossible, and the day was devoted to exercises by the aircraft.

When word was received in the morning that the royal yacht was within a dozen miles of Weymouth, a wireless message from the flag-ship ordered four naval airmen who were ashore to proceed to sea and find the royal vessel. A thirty-mile wind was blowing when Commander Samson, on the waterplane, specially noteworthy performance in took the water, skimming over the white-topped waves until he had, in a few minutes, spent to lift his machine into the air. Then he plunged into the black fog and disappeared.

He was the first to locate the royal vessel. After he had flown around at fifty-seven miles an hour without even being able to see his own tail-plane, he suddenly struck a clear patch between fog banks, and sighted the royal yacht. He circled above her for some time and then returned to shore.

Of the other three aerial scouts, Lieut. Gregory, in a short biplane, after perilous adventures, located the yacht. It was a far worse task and far more baffling than flying in the dark, and the moisture-laden atmosphere made the engines run badly. Twice Lieut. Gregory found himself butting into a high cliff, and twice the engines stopped firing, but he overcame every difficulty.

All four airmen found their way back without serious mishap. In the afternoon an air scheme was carried out. Commander Samson's waterplane flew to the royal yacht, settled on the water under the King's eyes, disembarked a naval officer whom it had brought as a passenger, and delivered a letter for the amazed King. Commander Samson then ascended to a great height, circled around the bay and the fleet, descended, skimmed the water, and again soared aloft in a series of splendid evolutions before he flew back to shore.

In the meanwhile other aeroplanes were giving illustrations of other effective uses to which he naval machines could be put. Lieut. Gregory achieved an especially noteworthy performance in skimming over the white-topped waves until he had, in a few minutes, spent to lift his machine into the air. Then he plunged into the black fog and disappeared.

heading for the line of dreadnoughts, sailed directly overhead, passing over the entire seven in turn.

Lieut. Gregory then swept around toward the King's yacht at a height of 100 feet, and released a blank bomb, a mass of iron, weighing 300 pounds.

Incidentally Lieut. Gregory during his flight did something that implies a revolution in one branch of naval warfare. He spied beneath him the periscope of a submerged submarine, and made a sensational volplane direct toward her, coming within thirty feet of the vessel.

It was a little haphazard incident not on the programme, but it eliminated a submarine as a daylight danger in naval warfare, and the projected submarine attack on the battleship Neptune now has no meaning.

NINE CANDIDATES INITIATED.

At the regular meeting of Portsmouth Lodge, No. 97, B. P. O. E., held on Thursday evening, nine candidates were initiated, and four were elected to membership.

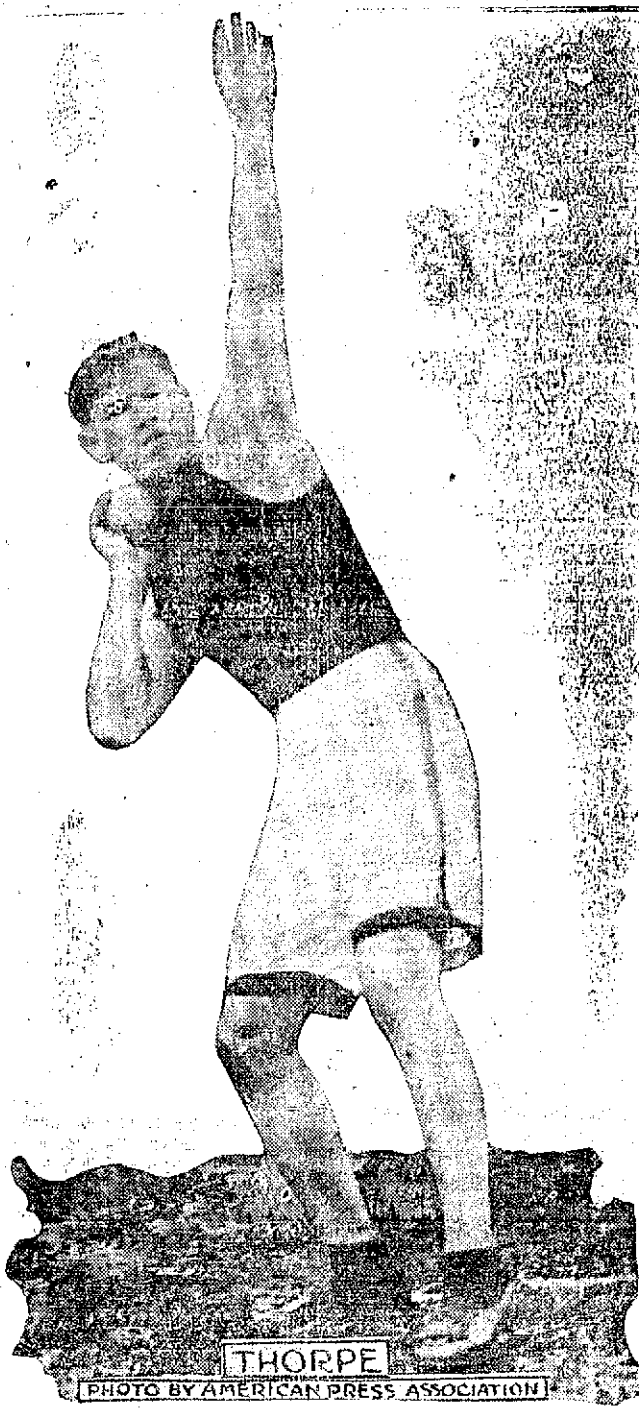

Albion O. Larsen presented the lodge with a bronze elk's head that was moulded from the wreckage of the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor.

Badger, the star shortstop of the local high school baseball team, it is said, will be out of the game for the remainder of the season, owing to the injuries sustained in last Saturday's game.

NEW FACTS ABOUT ECZEMA

For years eczema was thought to be incurable, and it is so considered today by many people. But since the compounding of Cadum, eczema is now a curable disease. Cadum has proved a blessing to many who have suffered for years from distressing, stubborn and disfiguring skin diseases. It is soothing and healing to an inflamed, irritated or diseased skin. It stops the itching at once, and begins healing with the first application. It is antiseptic, and when applied to an open sore or wound prevents infection from disease germs. Cadum quickly acts upon eczema, pimples, sores, blotches, ulcers, eruptions, rashes, rough skin, chafings, itching piles, etc. At all druggists, 10c & 25c.

Indian Thorpe in Training for Olympic all Round Tryouts

Carlisle, Pa., May 10.—Jim Thorpe, the Sac and Fox Indian youth from Oklahoma, now a student at the Carlisle Indian school, who came to the limelight in athletics last year, is now training carefully for the Olympic tryouts and hopes to qualify for the pentathlon and decathlon features, which represent all around athletic work. When announcement was made last fall of the marvelous abilities demonstrated by Thorpe in so many lines of sport, some doubt was expressed as to his qualifications. Observations of him, however, during the last football season confirmed predictions, and he became a 1911 gridiron star. In the winter indoor meets remarkably well in the dashes, hurdles, high jump and shot put. In the hurdles and jumps Thorpe probably finds his best field, although the weights frequently enable him to amaze spectators. Thorpe is twenty-three years old and weighs about 185 pounds. He will compete in the pentathlon tryout to be held at Celtic park, New York, May 18.

The dog officers have been appointed and the owners of Carlo and Fido should govern themselves accordingly and walk up to the cap'n's office and settle.

The Washington Star says government officials are bound to be more or less at a disadvantage in handling big combines. A great corporation invariably has a most ingenious and persuasive way of representing that anything it desires is for the public good.

The Chicago Tribune says that in its dignified New England way, Massachusetts is still trying to straighten out the tangle of its recent primary election and find out how it really meant to vote.

The Pittsburgh Dispatch well says a presidential preference primary that gives the votes to one candidate and the delegates to another reduces the whole business to absurdity.

The new sheriff of York county has started in with the intention of causing a drought in his domain. His first act was the closing of all the open rumshops in Biddeford and it is announced that there is not a place where liquor can be bought over the bar. Now that the open bars, in a prohibitory state, are eliminated, their patrons will have to affiliate with some booze clubs or else come across the border into New Hampshire to secure their supply. Prohibition in York County for some time past has been in the nature of a farce.

The New York Times says millions of men labor all their years to keep up a home, of which a woman is mistress. Poor enough the home may be, and the measure of toil its upkeep demands of the man may age him prematurely and derive him of all the freedom which he instinctively desires. But most men throughout the civilized world have been doing their duty as husbands and fathers, as citizens, according to their lights. That the triumph of woman suffrage would tend quickly to change the point of view of these millions of plodding men is not to be doubted. If a woman declares her independence, and forces the State to recognize it, the cry of the men will be "Let her uphold it and enjoy it as best she may." From the beginning "man that is born of woman" has been "of few days and full of trouble." Presumably he will continue to be born. Presumably he will continue to respect his mother, as Ishmael did. But with the opportunity afforded to him by the refusal of woman to recognize his manhood as a title of supremacy in the world's affairs, he will be at pains to avoid some of the trouble which he has hitherto regarded as part of his heritage.

This we hold to be inevitable. Let the women who are not yet avowed suffragists consider it. Above all, let the complacent multitudes of men who have accepted the full responsibility of citizenship consider it. There were, at most, 10,000 women in yesterday's parade. If their cause triumphs there will be 700,000 women voters in this municipality. Have the 10,000 thought much about the measure of influence they would exert if the whole number voted under the control of their associates and environment and as their intelligence impelled them to?

The suffragette parade exerted a great deal of influence, but not enough to establish fashionable approval of the thirty-nine-cent hat.

In some cases the presidential primary results only in complicating the data with which the political prophets are accustomed to figure.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES.

Tree Planting by Senators

A new and sentimental custom has been adopted by the director of the Capitol grounds at Washington in inviting each senator to plant a tree, the tree thereafter to be known by the name of the public man who set it out. Senator Lodge has set out a red oak, symbolic of the new kind of tree in the Harvard yard. Other senators are trying to decide what to plant. The custom is truly beautiful. Moreover, it will enable some of our public men to leave behind in Washington a useful reminder of their services, as otherwise the capital would contain none.—Boston Globe.

125TH ANNIVERSARY

Of the Launching of the Historic Ranger at Badger's Island.

Today, Friday, is the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the launching of the famous ship of war Ranger, built on Badger's island, under the direction of John Paul Jones, the intrepid commander. Without a doubt there was more excitement at Badger's island on that date, than at the present date of working.

NO CHANGE IN STATUS OF RICHESON CASE

Prisoner Still Under Examination of Jail Physician and Gov. Foss Says He Has Made No Decision.

Boston, Mass., May 9.—"There is absolutely no change in the status of the Richeson case," said Gov. Foss this noon. His Excellency also said that the members of the press and Council were unwarranted in their interpretation of the case last evening, based on what he said to the Lieut. Gov. Luce, and plainly stated that he had not reached any decision in the case as yet, and had not intimated to any person what his final decision on the appeal of Richeson for commutation of sentence will be.

To say that Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, the insanity expert, is wraithy over the printed statements that he had quite as safe as in the State Prison, made a report to the Governor, would be putting it mildly. He said expected to have the petition re-ferred by the Governor, but did say: "Dr. Briggs has not as yet made his report to the chief executive of the State, and it will be ample time to have never made and then calling speculate on Richeson's chance after him up on the telephone and asking that is done."

Several of Richeson's closest friends appeared in a hopeful mood today because they are firmly convinced that the petition will be referred to the Governor's Council.

They would not advance any specific reason for their optimism, but their faces reflected their feelings.

sign and domestic animals, is the statement made by Mr. F. M. Heat-on, agent for the Sparks shows, who was in town last Tuesday making arrangements for the appearance of this big circus here on May 29th.

The strange colony of people, handsome horses, rare wild animals and the golden caravans, were scheduled to arrive here during the early hours of the morning of the above date in their own special trains of specially built railway cars from Dover, where they will exhibit the day before.

Circus day will begin with the big street parade at 12 o'clock noon, and two performances will be given, the first starting at 2 o'clock and the other at 8 o'clock. It is said that the Sparks shows have $75,000 tied up in chariots, tableaux, floats, musical vehicles, fanciful and historic costumes, and expensive and odd things of distinctive parade use.

The grounds known as the Almshouse Field have been arranged for by the agent and a number of our merchants have received contracts to furnish immense quantities of feed stuff for both man and beast, to be delivered on the show grounds early in the morning of show day.

The Sparks shows have improved and grown remarkably during the last few years, and to those of us who remember its former visits comes the thought that it was always a clean, moral and entertaining show, and one we never hesitated in having our families visit. It is said that the show still retains these features that made it such a welcome visitor in the year's gone by, and that its methods of doing business with the public are still of that same high order.

The business meeting of the lodge was quickly gotten over, and the children were allowed to enter the lodge room and the following program was given:

BATTLESHIP UTAH IS SUCCESSFULLY PLACED IN DOCK

Hoodoo Has Vanished for New York Dry Dock

New York, May 9.—The dreadnought Utah was successfully placed today in the new drydock in the New York navy yard. Because of the ill fortune which has attended the construction of the drydock, there was some anxiety concerning the placing of the first battleship in the big concrete basin, during the building of which a number of workmen were killed and many were injured.

Great precautions were taken and the Utah was warped into the slip without mishap. After a line had been passed from the bow of the battleship to the powerhouse a diver went down and inspected the blocking upon which the big ship was to rest and saw that everything was in good condition. Then the water gate was lowered and the pumps were set to work.

STOMACH DISTRESS AND DYSPESIA GO

Diapepsin Makes Upset Stomachs
Feel Fine in Five Minutes

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome in four, gassy stomach five minutes later.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Fructuations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion and dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures advertised that they have almost made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe there is a case of Nervousness, Gas, flatulence, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest. Instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefies in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poisons the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, Walker was put in evidence. Mrs. Walker was granted $300 a month alimony.

Chinn of Washington, and his sister in law, Miss Elizabeth Chinn, asking $25,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

At the trial of the divorce suit it was testified that Miss Corcoran was a waitress in a railroad station in Boston before she became a governess in the Walker household. Mrs. Walker stated that her husband was one of the several officers who had occasionally entertained actresses at night at the New York navy yard. She said he was eccentric, wanted her to economize on two meals a day and threatened to put her in an insane asylum if she did not place the children where he wished. She said she didn't want them to stay with Mr. Walker's mother, at Boston, because the latter named woman was a suffragist. Alleged love letters from Miss Corcoran to Commander Walker were put in evidence. Mrs. Walker was granted $300 a month alimony.

Cottolene

The cook is never satisfied unless her baking turns out well. Cooks who have tried it secure better and more uniform results from the use of Cottolene than with butter, lard or any other shortening.

Cakes, pies, cookies and doughnuts are best made with Cottolene. It makes rich food without being greasy. Cottolene food, too, is always digestible, because it contains no hog fat.

Try Cottolene—not a "just as good" imitation—on your next baking day. Costs less because you use less.

WALL OF WATER SWEEPS OVER LOUISIANA

People Preparing to Escape From New Roads.

New Roads, La., May 9.—By tearing away 1400 feet of the south end of the Torras crevasse, a wall of water from eight to ten feet deep and half a mile in width is today bearing down upon the already overflooded area of Pointe Coupee, La. to be reaping a rich harvest in the Landry, and several other parishes inundated country. Many houses to complete its work of ruin. New Roads, heretofore considered practically safe from the Torras flood, is rapidly becoming inundated. Boats are being built and other preparations made by the townspeople for a hurried exit. This section of the parish being thickly populated, much rescue work will be required. Motor boats and skiffs are being concentrated here by the Government representatives. In some instances, the officers confiscated boats and are holding them in readiness. Farmers, driving their livestock in advance of the flood, arrived here early today from the country around Fardoché. They report hundreds of people are marooned in their homes in that vicinity who are in urgent need of relief. Motor boats were unable to reach that district yesterday, being down upon the already overflooded area. Looders in skiffs are reported flowing down upon the already overflooded area. Looders in skiffs are reported flowing down upon the already overflooded area. Looders in skiffs are reported flowing down upon the already overflooded area.

SOME OLD TIME PREACHERS

In Pioneer Days in Missouri Every Divine Carried a Gun With Him to Church.

Nearly every pioneer preacher in Missouri was as expert in the use of the rifle as any of the laymen, says a writer in the Globe-Democrat. Services were usually held in a neighbor's cabin. Notice of a "meeting" was promptly and generally circulated, and the settlers attended, uniformly bringing their rifles to guard against possible surprises or to obtain game on the way to or from the service.

The practice of carrying firearms was not abandoned or suspended even on the Sabbath. An old pioneer states that on one occasion religious services were held in Saline county when the preacher proclaimed the gospel of peace with his hand and his clothing covered with blood from a deer that he had killed and butchered on his way to the meeting that morning.

The pioneer preachers labored without money and without price. They gained their subsistence as did their neighbors, by the rifle and by their daily toil in their clearings and the corn fields.

Rev. Justinian Williams, Methodist, and Rev. Peyton Nowlin and Rev. Thomas Kinney, Baptists, were the first preachers in Saline county. They preached on Edmonson's Creek, and in the Big Bottom. "Old Man Nowlin," as he was called, was a sedate gentleman, dry as to manners and sermons, but with a kind heart and good intention.

His colleague, Kinney, however, was of a jovial disposition and very popular. He was without literary attainments, but invariably provoked his congregation to laughter. Nowlin took him to task upon one occasion for his levity. Kinney answered: "Well, I'd rather preach to laughing devils than to sleepy ones, as you do. You make them sleep and I make them laugh. My congregation will pass yours on the road to heaven. I bet you a coonskin they will."

MRS. SMITH HAD A SURPLUS
Undeniable Fact That Made Her Admit Stranger Might Be Right in Her Claim.

A woman who may be called Mrs. Smith placed her umbrella against the counter, at which she was making some purchases in a department store the other day, and when she finished picked it up and started away. At least that was the way it ran through her mind.

"Pardon me," said a strange woman, "but you have my umbrella."
"Oh, no," said Mrs. Smith, "that is my umbrella."
"Pardon me again," insisted the strange woman, "but it is mine."
"I guess I know my umbrella," said Mrs. Smith, beginning to show fight. "If you have lost your umbrella I am sorry, but I can't give you mine."
"Did you carry two umbrellas when you left home?" asked the stranger.
Then Mrs. Smith discovered that she had an umbrella in each hand and she surrendered.—Cleveland Press.

On Safe Ground.
Whenever, on one of his rare hollidays, Captain Goldby went to the city, he took some young relative with him as a special treat. On one such occasion he told his seventeen-year-old grandson, whom he had with him, that they would "dine at a real restaurant, and get a taste of fancy cooking."
When they were at last seated in the great dining room, the grandson waited impatiently while the captain read the bill of fare completely through without omitting a single article, whether domestic or foreign in title. At last he sighed, and handed the card across the table to the boy.

"You choose what you like, sonny," he said, with a sigh. "As for me, I reckon as I've already eat more herrin than any other man livin', I might as well stow away a little more. It's allays agreed with me, so far."—Youth's Companion.

NEVER FIGHT WITH BURGLAR

Upset a Chair and Frighten Him Away—That Is the Advice of a City Policeman.

"Don't ever 'hunt' a burglar. Make a noise and frighten him away. Upset a chair or slam a door."
"Almost all burglars carry revolvers of the finest kind. A 'pet man' or safe blower, the most dangerous kind of criminal, usually carries an automatic revolver, as it gives the quickest action."

"Every householder should have a weapon to the house, but he should never use it unless to save his life."
"It is the inexperienced man whose use of the revolver makes it dangerous."

"A professional or expert burglar will never shoot unless to avoid capture. A safe blower will shoot at a policeman or any intruder, as for them capture means a long term in prison."

Special Officer Edward Drophy, an expert, made these statements, says the Pittsburgh Post. It is only on the very rarest occasions that he can be induced to talk about himself, but it is a fact that he is a crack shot with a pistol. He has made a study of weapons, and has a collection of them at his home, ranging from little "baby hammerless" revolvers to huge Winchester rifles, a shot from which will move a heavy safe. He has always been interested in guns, and has taken special pains to learn about the guns burglars and other criminals carry.

EASIER THAN TO EXPLAIN

How the Man Who Had Been on Long Spree Squared Himself at Home.

Congressman Edward W. Townsend of New Jersey, very much in the public eye as the author of "Chimble Padden," the other day emerged hurriedly through the swinging doors out of the house, grabbed an acquaintance by the arm and rushed him down through the document room and into the open air.

"What's it all about?" demanded the friend when he got his breath.

"Something tells me that a rail call impends," said Townsend, "and, for a reason I have, I'd like to be reported dead or absent. Either would be easier explained than my vote. Which reminds me of a story."

"A long time ago I worked on a newspaper in Carson City, Nev. There was another fellow on the paper who was a good deal of a rummy and who used to go off on long sprees. One day he disappeared and nothing was heard of him for a month. He just got aboard of a train and started east, and at St. Louis he got a bum, the record of which is still preserved in the archives of the brewery just back of the town. He forgot home and mother and everything else. When he came to at the end of 30 days he felt that he was up against it a bit at home."

"Here," said he, "is a desperate case requiring a desperate remedy." Then he hid him to a telegraph shop and sent this message to his wife: "I died at 4 o'clock this afternoon. What shall I do with the remains?"

FREE PLEASURES IN LONDON

Finest Music in Churches and Sights That Will Interest The Relic Hunter.

In London there are pleasures to be had for nothing, as was explained to me by a hard-working woman with no money margin for enjoyments. With two feet and a pair of boots she could hear music every evening during Lent from Westminster Abbey to St. Alban's, Holborn, and the church in Soho which rivals the restaurant in attraction. And all for nothing—only she confessed to putting a half-penny into the bag from her own depleted purse. The scientific economist could probably spend a pleasant day in London without spending anything else.

Some London relics have wandered farther afield than the Black Boy of Clement's Inn. Swange possesses quite an assortment. The entire stone facade of the Mercers' Hall, Cheapside is to be found in the High street whither it was moved from London in 1852. Facing the sea is a Gothic clock tower taken bodily from London bridge, where it had been erected as a memorial to the Duke of Wellington. And in several roads about the town may be seen iron street posts, inscribed "St. Ann's Soho," and "St. Martin-in-the-Field." The explanation is that two quarries of Swange became paving contractors in London, and patriotically transported to their native town the more picturesque ornaments which found their way into their yard.—London Chronicle.

Wily Sexton.
Visitors to the Old North church are shown through the historic old building usually by an elderly man, who seems obsessed with a love for the church. His fund of reminiscences is refreshing, and the most interesting thing he recounts is the story of how the lanterns were placed in the belfry.
According to his version of the historic incident, the sexton overheard some English officers talking in the house he lived in, and immediately hung the lanterns. Returning to his room, he saw that his shoes were caked with mud and hid them, replacing them with a dry pair.
The officers, after they learned that a signal had been hung from the belfry, rushed to the room of the sexton but, finding his shoes dry, became convinced that some one else had hung the lanterns and then locked all the doors of the edifice.—Boston Journal.

Woman as Jail Governor.
Mme. Jenny Porchet, who has charge of the prison at Aigle, in the Canton of Vaud, France, is now 52 years of age, and 31 years ago she married the then prison governor.

At his death the authorities advertised for a successor, and among the applicants was his widow, who had managed the prison during her husband's long illness. Another point in her favor was her physique. In height she was only an inch of six feet, and possessed the muscles of a wrestler. The prison commission doubted her fitness, but when she offered to try her strength against the most powerful gendarme, all doubts subsided. The prison is said to be the best managed in Switzerland.

There's the Rub.
"Why is it that you are so strongly opposed to extending to women the right to vote?"
"My wife has become a suffragette."
"Well, what of it? Do you find that she neglects the children or that she isn't paying enough attention to the business of running the house?"
"No, it's not that. She's become so bluffed, well informed on public matters that I have to keep busy reading all the time in order to prevent her from finding out my ignorance concerning such things."—Judge.

WORD TO SMOKERS

At This Time of Year Especially Be Careful of Starting Fires

Just a word to those who indulge in smoking. Be careful where you throw your cigar or cigarette butts, matches, etc., as this is the most dangerous time of the year for such carelessness to bring about ill results. If in the woods or fields be sure and bury with your foot the remnants of your smoke. By such an insignificant act you may prevent a large fire loss.

Albert W. Dunlap, 36 N. School Street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I willingly verify all that I said in my former statements given for publication in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from kidney disease for years and my back often became so sore and painful that I could scarcely get about. I had other difficulties which left no doubt in my mind that my kidneys were disordered. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy and after their use every symptom of my trouble disappeared."

SUGAR PLUM CENTURIES OLD

It Was Invented by Julius Dragatus, a Roman Baker, in the Year 177 B. C.

Of all candies, perhaps the "sugar plum" boasts the most ancient lineage. It was the invention of one Julius Dragatus, a noted Roman baker and confectioner, a member of the family of the Fabii.

Dragatus put forth the first specimen of this confection in the year 177 B. C. The bachelors of this variety were called dragati, after their inventor (dragatus is French), and their manufacture constituted a monopoly enjoyed exclusively by the Fabian family. Whenever there was a birth or a marriage in that family a great distribution of dragati took place as an evidence of rejoicing. This custom is still retained by certain of the old noble families of Europe.

The pastille is of a far later origin. It was invented and introduced into France by an Italian confectioner, the Florentine Pastilla, a protégé of the Medici. When Maria de Medici married Henry IV of France Pastilla accompanied his royal patron to the French court, where his bonbons soon achieved a tremendous vogue. Everybody ate the Florentine's candies. They were offered in all flavors.

Burnt almonds are a confection of purely French origin, owing their inception to the gluttony of a French merchant. One day, tradition has it, Marshal Duplessis-Frauli sent for Lasagne, the inventor of many toothsome dainties, and bade him concoct a new bonbon. Lasagne searched, reflected, combined, until he finally hit upon the confection of burnt almonds, which were baptized with the name of the old gourmet, the French for burnt almonds.

PATHOS OF EATING OYSTERS

It Requires Great Moral Courage to Think of Swallowing One of the Bivalves.

To me the practice of devouring any animal life in its entirety is, and always has been, most difficult. The terrible demand of the oyster is that he be swallowed as a unit, with all his hopes, his joys, his sorrows, his love, his fears, and his ears and his legs; the thought is appalling.

I can eat large slices of a cow, and I suppose in a lifetime I have eaten a number of mature oxen, a few calves, a flock of sheep, several lambs, a number of turkeys, a long roast full of hens, a good sized aquarium, a goose or two and some ducks—but I did not swallow any of them whole. I took a slice at a time and enjoyed it, as my appetite is above the average for most dishes.

I don't mind seeing oysters swimming in a savory stew, I like their salty and flavor, but it takes all of my moral courage to think of eating one. Every time I get one of the little bivalves before me my eyes magnify him, he grows larger and larger, an emotional lump rises in my throat and I am obliged to content myself with swallowing my emotions instead of swallowing the emotions of the oyster. When I look at the little fellow lying helplessly before me, with his slippery surface and yielding body, I think that should I succeed in swallowing him I might have even more difficulty in retaining him.—Albert Scott Cox in the Metropolitan Magazine.

Spring Showers in Old Garden.

"It is a rare delight to wander in an old garden of a late afternoon just after a shower, when the day has been intensely hot and all Nature has fairly thirsted for rain. The flowers have drooped and the leaves curled for want of moisture. Even the birds have sought shelter from the fierce rays of the sun, when, late in the afternoon, suddenly, almost without warning, the welcome rain descends. A quick shower, soon over; and when the sun comes out clear and bright, all unmindful of the wet, you gather your skirts about you and go into the garden to watch the unfolding of the wilted leaves. You lift here and there a flower-stalk which the rain has beaten down; you wonder where the bees have taken refuge from the sudden downpour; you find one in the deep cup of a lily, another in the depth of a gladiolus blossom; farther on you see a rose which should have been added to your rose jar when you gathered in the morning, and as you grasp and pull it from the stem, you feel that sharp stab of pain that only the sting of a bee can give, which tells you that one has sought shelter in the heart of a rose."—Rebecca B. Simmons in Suburban Life.

Of What Use Are We?

We sometimes wonder of what use we are, and why we are put on earth. One day is added to another and we seem to be no farther advanced on the pathway of our lives. As Mark Twain would have put it, we do not appear to be gaining on the scenery. Yet there is room in the world, and need in the world, for each and every one of us, and therefore we must keep on going to the end. Emerson has a poem in which the squirrel talks to the mountain says: "I cannot carry forests on my back neither can you crack a nut." You can do something nobody else can do; namely, live your life. You have your chance, if you will only take it, and I have mine. If we can do nothing else we can at least be some one's friend, and there is nothing that the world more keenly wants and more sadly needs.—Ladies' Home Journal.

DECREE OF CHINESE THRONE

All Repentant Rebels Are Told They Will Be Forgiven and Their Past Buried.

Says a Chinese imperial decree quoted in the North China Daily News, following disturbances in Szechuan and Hupeh: "All persons who have been pressed bodily into service by the rebels, but who will save themselves by returning at once, shall be permitted to turn a new leaf without being questioned as to their past behavior, be they soldiers or people. Whoever shall serve us by killing rebels or by capturing and blinding members of the rebellion party, shall be rewarded regardless of rank, upon bringing them before us. Should any roll call book of the rebels be discovered, let it be instantly burned, and not the least inquiry be made that may cause distress.

"Yin Chang, Yuan Shih-kai, Tsen Chun-hsun and Tuan Fung are hereby ordered to make known the throne's virtuous desire by proclaiming it along their routes with a view to carefully condoning with and reassuring the people. They are also to issue proclamations earnestly exhorting the soldiers, the people and others not to listen to false doctrines or to repeat what they have heard said and not to believe wild rumors and be vainly intimidated.

"After the issue of this decree, you soldiers, people and others will understand clearly what is right and what is wrong, or, in other words, what will be to your advantage and what will be the reverse. You should each and all be content with your own lot, for you will thereby second our desire in quelling the disturbance and comforting our subjects."

Great Plague of London.

Medical authorities agree that the epidemic which prevailed in London in 1665 was what we now call bubonic plague. It is well known that this "Black Death" was prevalent in various parts of the world in ancient times. The outbreaks were peculiarly violent then by reason of the conditions of poverty and the almost total absence of sanitation. It was the ancient medical writers who gave it the name of the plague.

The mortality in London in 1665 was appalling. Thousands were swept away by the dread malady, and there was a great exodus from the stricken city. Some of the medical authorities thought it had been brought into London in bales of merchandise coming from Holland, which originally came from the Levant; others contended that it was brought in by Dutch prisoners of war.

Boy Has Right to Be Proud.

The proudest boy in France today is Raymond Marmiesse, who is sixteen years old. He is at present a patient in the Pasteur institute in Paris, and has received a silver medal with his name on it and a letter from the minister of public instruction. One Sunday afternoon a mad dog raced through the streets of Calors. It had bitten several other dogs, a horse, and two children. Marmiesse, who was passing, threw himself headlong on the dog, and tried to strangle it. People showed to him that he would be bitten; and he was bitten terribly. His father begged him to come away from the dog, but "better one than half a dozen more children be bitten!" shouted the boy, and he stuck to the dog till a man managed to slip a noose over its head and draw it tight.

Unexpected Testimonial.

Little Bidderon prided himself upon his good appetite and his capacity for amusing. He was dining with a friend a few nights ago, and did his best to keep his host and hostess with their six-year-old daughter amused, and at the same time managed to do simple justice to the good things provided. "Oh, dear, Mr. Bidderon," remarked the little one, after the guest's wildest snail, "I wish you'd come here to dinner every day." Bidderon positively beamed with satisfaction. "Do you, dear?" he smiled. "Why?" "Cause," came the reply, as the observant maiden glanced round the table, "cause there wouldn't be anything cold to eat the next day."

LIVES AND WRITINGS UNLIKE

Men of Letters Often Have Described Best That Which They Never Have Experienced.

Finally, a man of genius, who writes a book, and "all the good comes rushing into his soul," is in an abnormal state, and hence, the lives of men of letters have often been in glaring contrast to their writings. Montaigne tells us that he always observed super-celestial opinions to be accompanied with subterranean morals; on the other hand, the most latitudinarian professors of epicureanism have often lived like anchorites or trappists. Some of the best sea songs have been written by men who never smelt a salt water breeze; stirring war songs have been written by timid men and women who would have shrieked at the sight of a mouse; and hymns steeped in the very spirit of devotion have been written by men of doubtful morality, who were never less at home than in a Christian church. Charles Lamb was ready to wager that Milton's morning hymn in Paradise was penned at midnight; and we know positively that Thompson, who sang the praises of early rising in the "Seasons," used to lie abed till noon. Sir Richard Steele could discourse eloquently on temperance when he was not drunk; Woodworth, in his "Old Oaken Bucket," sang the praise of cold water under the inspiration of brandy. Doctor Johnson, who wrote so well on politeness, interrupted his opponents with "You lie, sir!" "You are a vile whig, sir!" Burns was a compound of "dirt and deity"; Rousseau, who was always filling people's eyes with tears, betrayed and slandered his benefactors in turn, and sent his children to the foundlings hospital. When Moore proposed to Scott to go and see Melrose Abbey, as Sir Walter had described it, by moonlight, "Pooh, pooh," said Scott, "you don't suppose I ever saw it by moonlight!"—William Matthews.

At Nuts in Church.

The Sunday before Michaelmas day saw, until recent times, a curious custom at Kingston-Thames. The parishioners attended in force at the parish church, armed with nuts, which they cracked and ate throughout the service. "Nut cracking," however, was not peculiar to Kingston. Goldsmith jokes his Vicar of Wakefield, say of his parishioners: "They kept up the Christmas Carol, seat true-love knots on Valentine morning, ate pancakes at Shrove-tide, and religiously cracked nuts on Michaelmas eve."—London Chronicle.

How Malta Became European.

Malta underwent a geographical as well as a political change through its acquisition by England in 1814. It had always been regarded as part of Africa, to which it seemed to belong both from topography and language. After its annexation, however, it was discovered that the garrison was entitled to the higher pay granted to troops employed out of Europe, and were therefore more privileged than the soldiers in the Ionian Islands. To remedy this parliament passed an act decreeing that so far as pay went Malta should be regarded as part of Europe. It used to be a joke that Malta had become European by act of parliament, and the jest soon became a reality.

London's Smoke Nuisance.

A parliamentary return just issued gives the total number of smoke consuming furnaces in the various police districts of London as 7,876, including 265 furnaces fitted in steam-boats on the Thames. The number of convictions sought for and obtained before the magistrates in respect of smoke nuisances since the operation of the act, in 1854, amounts to 372. There are 54 different constructions of apparatus at the various manufacturing works, etc., in the metropolis, all of which work well and prevent nuisance from smoke. The number of furnaces in the city of London is 397, the convictions two, and five persons are employed as examiners of furnaces.

What She Wanted.

Jim Mann was on his way back from Chicago and couldn't help bearing the conversation of the couple in the section right behind him. They looked like newly married folks, but were not on their honeymoon, as Mann learned by deduction. The woman laid down a newspaper she had been reading and said to her husband:

"Do you know, I wish I had one of these affinites. Oh, I think it would be just grand to sit on a rock with somebody and have him rave about the incomparable golden color of my hair and tell me that my eyes were the most beautiful in the whole world, and the most beautiful in the whole world."

"Oh, huh," said the husband, yawning. "And that the delicate pink of my cheeks had been painted there by the angels, and that he couldn't live without me. O-oh, I think an affinity like that would be—"

"Isn't an affinity you want," interrupted her husband. "What you seem to want is a plain, old-fashioned liar."—Mack's National Monthly.

Her Easter Hat.

Appropos of the latest foreign limousine—the limousine with a roof that slides back for aviation meetings—Frank Coffey, of hydroplane fame, said the other day in New York:

"This car reminds me of a conversation I overheard between two girls. 'It was an awfully smart crowd at the flying,' said the first girl. 'I saw some awfully nice frocks.'"

"And who flew?" the second girl inquired.

"Don't ask me!" said the first girl. "Do you think I was going to take off my new Easter hat just to see a lot of aeroplanes?"

WHERE MARRYING IS WRONG

Fellows of Oxford University, England, in Certain Circumstances Are Penalized for Wedding.

Much is heard of the taxation of bachelors; but little is ever said of the communities wherein matrimony is deemed a punishable offense. Perhaps the most extraordinary ideas with reference to this subject may be said to be held at Oxford University in England. There, for instance, a fellow of All Souls College forfeits his fellowship, if when studying the classics, he should take unto himself a wife. In such event he must not only pay a penalty, but must also present his college with a memorial in the shape of a silver cup, with the further condition that on this cup shall be inscribed in Latin, "He backslid into matrimony."

There is an aristocratic club in London, the Bachelors of Piccadilly, whereof the members who so far forget their loyalty to the club as to marry are actually expelled and ostracized. The only saving feature of such expulsion is that, by the payment of a fine of one hundred dollars, the offending one may retain an honorary membership; but, so far as active membership is concerned, he is strictly out of it for the rest of his life.

There is a similar organization in Germany, the Jungcelle Club. Whenever there comes to the officials of this club any intimation that a member contemplates matrimony, he is immediately summoned for trial in the club court, with the president as judge. The culprit is allowed to plead in extenuation of his offense, and upon his skill in presenting such plea depends the amount of his fine, which ranges from one hundred to one thousand dollars. The humorous feature of the fine consists in the application made. The money is devoted to a dinner, whereat all members appear in mourning attire. At the conclusion of the feast the president solemnly reads the sentence of expulsion, and the delinquent is led from the room amid the groans and lamentations of his erstwhile club fellows. —The Sunday Magazine.

FAMOUS ROBBER OF JAPAN

Nezum Kozo Stole From Old-Time Daimyos to Relieve Sufferings of the Poor.

Behind the temple sacred to the Nameless Dead and close to the wrestling amphitheater in Tokyo there is to be found the grave of the celebrated robber, Nezum Kozo, who stole from the daimyos long ago in the old Yedo days that he might relieve the sufferings of the poor. There is a superstition connected with this grave which has made it a much frequented spot. If a portion of the headstone is carried away it acts as a lucky talisman, particularly to those who speculate or are otherwise engaged in games of chance. It is usual for a person brending a piece from the stone to make a vow that in case he is successful he will buy a new headstone to replace the one he has mutilated. Many prayers must have been answered, for the stones are piled high on either side of the grave, and an enterprising individual near by has the stones already for sale and only waiting the name of the donor to be engraved and then set up. A shelter has been placed over the spot, and from the roof hang gay lanterns and pilgrims' banners. A large money box catches all the stray sen which go for the upkeep of the grave. Gamblers and gelsba are often visitors; students before their examination feel more assured of success if they have a chip of Nezum Kozo's headstone in the sleeve of their kimono.

OBITUARY

Onslow N. McIntire

Onslow N. McIntire, one of the best known and respected residents of Kittery died Thursday shortly after noon from the shock attending a surgical operation. For the past six months he had been suffering from gangrene in his left foot and in order to prolong his life the attending physician found that it was necessary to resort to amputation.

He was born in this city June 22, 1858, the son of Sylvanus and Margaret Stinson McIntire. His parents moved to Kittery when he was young and his education was gained in the public schools of that town. When only two and one half years old he was afflicted with illness that caused him to be an invalid during his latter life. Although an invalid he maintained a cheerful disposition and bore his affliction with a Christian fortitude. His loyalty to the Kittery high school was unceasing and he was largely instrumental in forming the Kittery High School alumni of which he was secretary until this year, when he was obliged to resign on account of his failing health. For the past fifteen years he has conducted a small job printing plant and continued the same until he was forced to retire because of his weak health. He was a frequent contributor to the columns of the press, beans, green or wax, 25c. 3 lbs. Ber He is survived by two sisters, Miss Almira McIntire and Mrs. Annie McInire, who have for years tenderly cared and administered to his wants and those who knew Mr. McIntire best were aware of his sterling qualities, and he will be sadly missed from his accustomed place by all.

A RUMOR

A rumor has been prevalent for the past two days that William H. Foland and Col. Harry N. Anderson of Exeter has purchased the Portsmouth and Exeter street railroad. The Herald tried to get either a confirmation or a denial of the report this morning, but was unable to do so.

The Herald Hears

That the animal show booked here on May 29 is said to be a very fine performance.

That a little enterprise on the part of the people along the line will bring back the Portsmouth and Exeter electric road.

That there is so much dirt on Market street one would never know that the street had been paved.

That Congressman Suloway is at home in Manchester for a few days.

That he predicts the nomination and election of William H. Taft.

That some of the bound dogs are liable to get kicked around if the license money is not coming along.

That the Universalist parish had a very lively business meeting on Thursday evening.

That some of the teams of the Sun set League have not yet got a full lineup.

That lobsters promise to be plentiful this summer and high in price.

That the move to get the German navy fleet to visit Portsmouth is a good one and should be encouraged.

That a trip to the mountains for the officers is another good move if it can be carried out.

That Street Commissioner Ridge says he never saw help so plenty and so little to do in the street division.

That the odor from the sewer traps at the corner of Deer and Market streets is certainly strong.

That the Portsmouth High school team has been pulled out from the track and field meet at Durham tomorrow.

That Mrs. Francis L. Beckman of Seabrook, whose will was lately probated, gives a pair of parrots to a friend in Australia.

That the will of the late Peter Dounelly of Dover also contains another rather unusual bequest. After disposing of various legacies to relatives and intimate friends, the remainder and residue of his estate is held in trust until such time as the Roman Catholics of Dover erect another Roman Catholic church there. The residue is then to be used for the purpose of purchasing altars and windows.
